

Our first event was a cross-disciplinary international workshop on Emerging Questions in Migration Research.

Co-sponsored by the ESRC Research Centre of Micro-Social Change (MiSoC) and our Department of Sociology, the workshop brought together scholars from Germany, Spain and across the UK to discuss questions such as:

- How do immigrants become citizens?
- Why do the children of immigrants perform better in school?
- What are the psychosocial experiences of refugees?

The event explored the latest research on questions of immigrant citizenship and civic engagement, academic performance and aspirations, and social trust and cohesion, using case studies from around the world.